IN THE COURTS

In Police Court.

Three offenders were presented in police court this morning. One was Ida Munn, negro, charged with being drunk. Another was Aieck White, charged with the same offense. He was assessed $1 and the trimmings. Annie Grogan, colored, who insisted on using obscene language on the streets, was fined $3 and costs.

In Bankruptcy.

The petition for a rehearing in the bankrupt matter of Will Harris & company, of Murray, was yesterday afternoon dismissed by Emmett W. Bagby, referee in bankruptcy. The matter had been referred to Referee Bagby after an application from Will Linn and L. C. Linn for the firm. The petition asked for a rehearing as to one claim, that of the Carter Dry Goods company, amounting to $1,500. It is one of the biggest bankrupt cases in this end of the state.

Court Notes.

Charles Smiley, colored, was summoned before Justice Charles Emery yesterday afternoon and tried for a debt alleged to be owing the A. J. Hogan estate. The debt amounted to $10.40 and was paid. Smiley is preparing to remove from the city.

Deputy Sheriff Clark Forison and Gus Rogers have returned from Ed-dyville where yesterday they took six prisoners convicted during the special term of circuit court.

The Globe Bank and Trust company has qualified as guardian for M. Randall.

Rev. E. Senese qualified as guardian for Crossfiesso Furco, the latter being under age and desiring to marry.

Speaker Joe Cannon.

Indeed, much does depend upon the hustling of the human unit. Uncle Joe can speak with authority. He is both a hustler and a unit. He hustles in and out of the halls of the congress; he hustles through whatever legislation he desires and hustles into oblivion that which he objects to; he hustles to keep the sacred tariff alive and well, and hustles for the presidential nomination. As a unit he makes laws for the land of the free and home of the brave. He is not only a unit, but it. He is the national house of representatives. In short and in fine, Uncle Joe is the greatest living example of the Hustling Unit.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Tidings From Grindstone.

We are pained to learn that Frank Edson cut his finger and is off duty. We hope however, that he cut it good, because that's more than he did to our hair.

Shoemaker's Department Emporium is adding another floor to the establishment. The new floor is being laid right on top of the old one.

A bill will be introduced at the next session of the legislature to change the name of Dirty Woman Creek to Unbathed Lady Creek. The former name doesn't sound lady-like.

A subscription has been started to purchase a new pair of green pants for our band. He has been plowing in the present pair.—Grindstone (S. D.) Bee.

Transfer Licenses.

Two transfers of liquor licenses were made in county court. The license of Sherman Phillips was transferred to Joe Gourieux and the license of C. R. Seull transferred to L. A. Morgan.

Deeds Filed.

Charles T. Truchart grants to Hiram Smedley power of attorney.

IN THE LOBBY

When you are suffering with the blues, or have a very bad case of the dumps, just get into a crowd of, or with just one or two automobile devotees, and listen to the humorous tales they can, and will tell. One of the best ones going the rounds just now is on a popular young society bachelor. He had a young lady visitor out in his machine one evening and got onto one of the streets which is being reconstructed.—and to the motorists in Paducah it looks like all of the streets just now are torn up for something. He found he could not go out the street and would have to turn around. In trying to do so the machine ran up on a big pile of mud and dirt, and stalled, and, try as he would with his reverse the car would not, or could not back off. "Here," he said to the maiden, "you get over here and drive the machine, I shall get in front and push and help back it." The girl looked at it a few minutes and soon decided she did not want to try the feat, and refused. She suggested, however, that she should get out and push and the young man could back the car. And she did. She got in front of the car and pushed and puffed, and the engine backed and puffed but the car did not budge. Finally, when they were about to give up in desperation, a man came strolling along and gallantly offered his assistance and the three managed to get the car off all right. The young lady was a large girl, and in telling the story the young man said he told her a twenty horse power car and a forty horse power girl certainly should have backed any car off any size mud pile.

Just lots of people think it is a joke when a Kentuckian says he can not get a good drink of whisky, or a drink of good whisky, outside of the state, but every native son, who pays a visit outside the limits of the domain of the old commonwealth will vouch for the truth of the assertion. Especially will the boys who go to New York tell you it is true. When Kentucky had its Home Coming week a few weeks ago Irvin Cobb wrote a story for the New York World on the event, and why it was such a success. He told about the stuff they call whisky sold in other places, and wound up the article by saying the Kentuckians went home to get a drink—a real drink. "A favorite drink with the New York City folks," said a Paducahan just from there, a man who likes his drinks, and knows them all down the line, is "gin rick-ey." They have never heard of stick gin, it's all "slow gin." They don't know what a "lemon toddy" is. In fact, the Larkkeepers don't know as much about a drink as a Paducah motorman does.

"The Canadians think they will finally annex the United States and we think we will annex Canada. The way American farmers are going to Canada it seems more likely that the latter course will be followed. To a certain extent we are losing the cream of American farmers and are filling up with Italians and other foreign nationalities. In Canada the wheat lands are fresh and at present limitless, while in the United States our lands are showing signs of wear." The man talking was a traveling man who frequently "rubs up against the border line." Continuing he said, "Hill's Great Northern and the Canadian Pacific are racing to get into that country the soonest. Already the American and Canadian elements are differing on the school question and other issues are sure to develop as the country becomes more Americanized. You know, everybody who becomes a citizen of Canada must swear allegiance to the King. That goes hard with some of the Americans. As sure as we live, there will be trouble there, because those Canadians are showing a personality themselves and many dyed-in-the blood Americans are imbibing their spirit."

There are two public men in Paducah who have not fallen a victim to the "pass" obligation evil. They are Senator J. Wheeler Campbell and Mayor David A. Yeiser. Some one accused Mayor Yeiser of "riding on a pass." "I'm not guilty," he declared. "I do not believe that a person should obligate himself by accepting such courtesies, and if he does, and shows no favor, he will never get credit for it. I believe the best way out of it is not to accept passes, no matter how sincere the donors are." Senator J. Wheeler Campbell thinks the same. He has had the opportunity of riding on railroads free, but always pays his fare. "I believe this the best policy to pursue," he declared, "and to avoid obligating myself, I have refused them."

"You being a newspaper man reminds me of another newspaper man. K—I used to know in Cincinnati. Back in the early nineties he was the Washington correspondent of the Louisville Times, and a certain Kentucky congressman, D—, got mixed up in some sort of scandal which K— wrote up. Ever after that when this congressman met the reporter in hotel lobbies and other public places, he would slap him around and abuse him generally. Finally it got to the point where the reporter would either have to leave town or settle with the congressman. So he secured an old pistol and met the congressman coming down the capitol steps. He was going up. The congressman, I think, started to hand out the usual dose of abuse, and the reporter shot him, killing him on the spot. They had lots of trouble clearing the reporter and President Cleveland finally appointed him to a consular position abroad. He came back after a few years and was city reporter on the Enquirer for a long time."—John B. Chamberlain, of Eldorado, Ill., was reminiscent at Feeding the King of Spain.

The king of Spain is exceedingly fond of the pleasures of the table. He keeps a palace cook on duty until 4 a. m., so that he can have a repast at any hour after midnight. Five meals are served daily in the Escorial Palace. This is Alfonso's eating schedule for the day:

8 a. m.—Breakfast. Tea, coffee, chocolate, milk, rolls, eggs and cold meat.

11 a. m.—Luncheon with the minister of state. Soup, two entrees, joint, vegetables, sweets and fruit.

4 p. m.—Tea or Spanish wine, cakes and sandwiches.

7 p. m.—Dinner. Two soups, two entrees, a joint, vegetables, ice, sweets, fruits, Spanish wines, champagne.

9:20 p. m.—Tea, wines, cold meat, crackers, cakes and dessert.—Harper's Weekly.

INTERESTING LECTURE.

Mrs. Mary E. Balch of Louisville Speaks Here.

Mrs. Mary E. Balch, of Louisville, state corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U., and for a number of years one of the national organizers, will deliver a lecture tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Broadway Methodist church under the auspices of the Paducah W. C. T. U. Her subject for this address is "How I Read My Bible." Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock she will speak in the lecture room of the First Christian church on "How I Read History." Mrs. Balch has the reputation of being one of the brainiest women of Kentucky. She is said to be practical, logical and a good story teller and one who never fails to interest her audience.

OCEAN GREYHOUNDS

Leave New York on Race Across the Atlantic.

New York, June 30.—Properly groomed and "rubbed down," their bunkers stuffed with the most critically selected and hand-picked steaming coal money can buy, the crack greyhounds of the German and French flags, respectively, started on their trans-Atlantic race yesterday. The mighty Deutschland, the record holder of the ocean, dropped out from her Hoboken pier into North river at 9 a. m., one hour and a half after her usual time for sailing. La Provence, of the French line, was unfettered thirty-five minutes later than her scheduled hour for starting, 10 a. m. While officials of both lines are careful not to make any statement that the vessels are racing, they are keenly interested to see which pulls up on the other side first.
